Storyteller: One day, Mother Bear was making some breakfast for the three bears. She mixed up some oatmeal, some water, and some salt to make porridge.

Mother Bear: I mix up the porridge. What do we get?

Father Bear and Baby Bear: The yummy tummy rumbles! Can we eat it yet?

Mother Bear: No!

Storyteller: Then Mother Bear cooked the porridge on the fire.

Mother Bear: I cook it on the fire. What do we get?

Father Bear and Baby Bear: The yummy tummy rumbles! Can we eat it yet?

Mother Bear: No!

Storyteller: Then Mother Bear put some sugar on the porridge.

Mother Bear: I put on some sugar. What do we get?

Father Bear and Baby Bear: The yummy tummy rumbles!

Can we eat it yet?

Mother Bear: No!

Storyteller: Then Mother Bear put some cream on the porridge.

Mother Bear: I put on some cream. What do we get?

Father Bear and Baby Bear: The yummy tummy rumbles!

Can we eat it yet?

Mother Bear: No!

Storyteller: The Three Bears all went for a long walk while the porridge cooled down. Then they came home.

Mother Bear: We've been for a long walk. What do we get?

Father Bear and Baby Bear: The yummy tummy rumbles!

Can we eat it yet?

Mother Bear: Yes!

Storyteller: And they all ran inside to eat their porridge.

Mother Bear: We go to eat our porridge. What do we see?

Father Bear and Baby Bear: Someone's been eating it.

Who could it be?

Everyone: Goldilocks!
